I wish to express my support for oyster farming in Ballinass Bay. Oysters can help improve water quality, provide habitats for marine life, and support coastal protection. As highlighted by Business Insider's True Cost episode, oyster reefs have declined due to overharvesting, storms, and pollution, making their restoration increasingly important.

I believe responsibly managed oyster farming could benefit our local economy, create employment, and support the marine environment. I ask that this opportunity be given serious consideration for the benefit of Ballinass Bay and future generations.

Yours faithfully,
Brian durning
